This report summarizes the purpose, methods and major findings of a statewide electronic survey to examine service gaps in Florida's child welfare system. This study was initiated at the request of Florida Department of Children and Families (DCF). The purpose of the survey was to conduct a comprehensive gap analysis of the services available at the community level for families at risk of involvement or involved with Florida's child welfare system. In July, 2000, the Controlled Materials Accountability and Tracking System (COMATS) Team, with the assistance of a representative of the Local Area Network Materials Accountability System (LANMAS) development team from Savannah River, performed an evaluation to enumerate and qualify differences between the current LANMAS functionality and LLNL requirements as implemented by COMATS. The differences found range from minor to serious deficiencies of LANMAS in relation to current LLNL MC & A practice. Therefore, we recommend a gradual integration of LANMAS into a hybrid system which uses LANMAS to satisfy DOE/NNSA MC & A and reporting requirements and uses COMATS to satisfy LLNL-specific MC & A and operational requirements.
